

It has come to our attention that some of our customers have been sent e-mails regarding their account with Daniamant as follows:

Hello,

Can you confirm the status of our outstanding and due payments if there are any. Please get back to us at the earliest with the total amount outstanding, corresponding due dates and invoices respectively. Kindly hold off on payment if any monies are found to be outstanding

Your immediate response will be highly appreciated.

Hi,

Thanks for your prompt response, I need you to read very carefully.

We wish to bring to your notice that our account with you is undergoing audit at this time and cannot receive payment. Hence the reason for my previous mail, so take note of this to avoid any mistake.

Kindly confirm the total amount of payment for record purpose.

I will be sending our updated banking details shortly after your reply

These e-mails have not been sent by anyone at Daniamant.

Please be assured that we are not changing our bank details. If we were to change our bank account details we would always ensure that the notification would be sent to you by your usual Daniamant contact who you would be familiar with.

Please do not reply to any of these fraudulent e-mails.

If you have any questions regarding this then please phone or e-mail your usual Daniamant contact.
